Rumania Grants Nazi Rights Despite Army Objection

TIMBER LEASE GIVEN BERLIN FOR 30 YEARS

Senate Ignores Protest of Officers That Act Threatens Defenses.

By The Associated Press

BUCHAREST, April 17—The Rumanian senate provisionally accepted today a government bill to give Germany a 30-year lease on almost 100,000 acres of timber—despite testimony of army officers that the lease would jeopardize national defense.

Ionescu Sisesti, minister of agriculture, defended the bill on grounds that it was part of an economic understanding with Germany which greatly benefited Rumania.

Military experts said the vast forest reserves in central Rumania constituted a natural defense line.

High-ranking officers declared that enactment of the bill would be a great strategical error, allowing Germany to send a large corps of experts and workmen into forests located at "the most vulnerable spot in the country," on the old Rumanian-German border.

Sisesti said the Germans should be allowed to build a railroad and establish factories there to carry out lumber operations.

Germany Protests

Germany previously had protested Bucharest's embargo on wheat exports and temporary stoppage of oil shipments and, it was acknowledged in official quarters, Rumania is in an extremely difficult position.

The action which Rumania took Monday to fortify herself by storing for her own use such vital commodities as wheat and oil pardoxically was seen as having the contrary effect of further straining relations with Germany.

Dr. Karl Clodius, head of the German trade delegation which has been negotiating here for weeks, was said to have complained that the Rumanian government's new restrictive measures violated German-Rumanian trade agreements which the Nazis insist promised them an uninterrupted flow of Rumanian wheat and oil.

Foreign observers saw the new measures as a severe blow to Germany's war economy. Rumania, in some years, has exported to Germany more than one million metric tons of wheat a year, which is about two-thirds of Germany's normal import requirements. (A metric ton equals 1.102 short tons or 36.71 bushels of wheat).

Takes Defense Measures

Rumania also has taken other measures for defense. Her Black sea and Danube ports were ready to go under navy rule today as an important step in an intensive program to prepare the nation for the possibility of war. Gen. Paul Teodorescu, minister of navy and air, laid before parliament a bill giving the government immediate power to take "extraordinary measures" in all ports and territorial waters.

Units of the Russian navy were reported gathered in unusual number at Odessa, Soviet Black sea port. (The German radio was reported to have broadcast a Moscow report that the Russian Black sea fleet had started maneuvers).

"Strategic" factories working for national defense were ordered to build up immediately a 15-day emergency supply of gasoline and fuel oil which may not be touched unless there is general mobilization.

Rumanians explained that their prospective wheat crop would leave scarcely enough for the nation's own needs, let alone exports for Germany. The German reply is that the prospective failure is due largely to Rumania's refusal to heed Hitler's advice to demobilize 1,600,000 men under arms so that all fields could be planted.

Foreign diplomats prophesy now that Germany will seek further means of pressure to make the government send farmer-soldiery back home.

Burton L. Fisher, 40-year-old former Marion heating equipment salesman who faces a one-year penitentiary term in Florida on a bigamy charge, is shown above as he was photographed during questioning in Miami recently. He also is charged with issuing two questionable checks, one here and the other in Miami.

SUIT FILED IN GAMBLING RAID

Columbus Man Seeks Recovery of Teletype Machine Seized by Police.

A replevin suit to recover teletype equipment seized in a police raid at the Kentucky club on South Main street April 8, was filed in municipal court yesterday by John E. Cook of Columbus, manager of the Empire News Service Co., against Police Chief William E. Marks.

The suit was scheduled for hearing Friday morning.

The replevin petition, filed through Attorney Grant E. Mouser Jr., states that the Empire News Service Co. has property rights to the equipment, having leased it from the Western Union Co. It further states that the equipment was seized illegally by the police and is now in possession of Chief Marks.

Police Rights Questioned

The hearing, which will be before Municipal Judge Hazen, will be for the purpose of determining whether police have a legal right to hold the equipment, court officials explained.

The teletype equipment, which was found in an apartment adjacent to the Kentucky club, was in a large quantity of equipment and supplies seized in the raid, which resulted in four men being charged with operating a gambling house in connection with the club.

The teletype machine received telegraphic news reports, including race entries and results which were transmitted to the Kentucky Club by means of a public address system, police reported.

Cases of the four men charged with operating a gambling house are set for hearing next Monday.

ENGINEER STARTS CCC SURVEY WORK

Will Have Charge of Preliminary Camp Program Here.

R. W. DeWeese, engineer for the civilian conservation corps, arrived here from Defiance today to take charge of preliminary surveys of projects to be handled through the CCC camp, tentatively scheduled for establishment here early in June.

He will supervise surveys to determine the estimated cost of proposed projects. A crew of CCC enrollees from the Attica camp probably will be detailed here early next week to assist him, Mr. DeWeese said. For the present he will maintain quarters in the office of the county commissioners at the courthouse.

His work is the second step in organizing the CCC program. F. A. Daum, soil conservation superintendent, has completed organization of the first group of ditch associations. The groups are composed of landowners interested in particular drainage areas who desire to sponsor projects. Mr. Daum has returned to Defiance but is expected to come here later to to continue the organization work.

JURY TO GET HOLLAND CASE

Testimony and Arguments Are Completed; Deliberations To Begin Today.

Special to The Star

TROY, O., April 17—Testimony in the trial of Gustav A. Holland, former Marion mill official, accused of arson in the $100,000 Holland Mills fire at Piqua last December, was completed this morning and the jury was expected to receive the case this afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon 10 character witnesses from Piqua spoke highly of Holland as a reputable business man. Depositions from six residents of Ft. Wayne, Ind. Holland's former home, were also read and were all favorable to Holland.

Doctor on Stand

This morning the only testimony concerned the mental condition of William Dowty, 26-year-old Piqua mill worker, whose confession that he set the mill on fire implicated Holland. Dr. I. C. Kiser of Piqua who said yesterday that he regarded Dowty as an example of an "emotional psychosis" admitted on cross examination that he had never examined Dowty but came to this conclusion from observing him on the street and at work around the Kiser home.

The state then put on Dr. J. M. Gettrost, an alienist employed in a Columbus state institution, who said he had thoroughly examined Dowty and found him perfectly normal physically and mentally.

Dowty, who has been sentenced to Mansfield reformatory for his part in the fire, was employed at the Holland Mills at the time of the fire. He charged that Holland, who operated the rival Holland Pioneer Mills, induced him to set the fire to get rid of competition.

Holland Declares Innocence

Dowty's testimony is the only support produced for the state's charge against Holland. Holland has steadfastly denied Dowty's story and has maintained he had no part in the fire.

Holland was formerly secretary and vice president of Old Fort Mills, Inc., of Marion and also headed the Holland Mills at Piqua until last Oct. 15.

Attorneys began their arguments shortly after testimony was completed at 10:15. Court was to recess at 1 p. m. for an hour or so, after which Judge Paul Klapp was to give his charge to the jury of six men and six women.

There was also discussion of a summer-long campaign for home beautification similar to one staged last summer.

BUCYRUS JUDGE RULES IN STEUBENVILLE CASE

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., April 17—A month-old hearing into Steubenville's mayoralty election ended today with common pleas court ruling that Mayor James T. Welsh, Democrat, defeated Charles E. Baker, Republican, by a 209-vote margin.

Welsh has been in office since Jan. 1. A recount of the November ballots gave him a 170-vote advantage, but Baker contested the result. More than 400 witnesses were called during the extended hearing.

Judge Clarence U. Ahl of Bucyrus, who handed down the decision, said the final figure was reached after eliminating illegally cast ballots.

Heavy Fighting on Land Ahead To Oust Germans

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The battle of Norway continues its feverish pace toward the inevitable land fighting which must form a vital part of the operations to determine whether the allies can break the German grip on the southern and most important part of the country.

The most sensational development yesterday was the successful Nazi ruse which enabled them to capture the short railway from Trondheim across Norway's narrow waist to Sweden.

However, while this was spectacular in the extreme, its undoubted strategic value is potential rather than an immediate menace to the allies. Should the Germans invade Sweden successfully—and an attempt is possible—then this rail line would be invaluable for troop and supply movement.

The further the protracted battle of Norway goes, the clearer becomes the magnitude of the gamble which Herr Hitler made in his effort to catch his enemy unprepared and strike a costly blow not only at the blockade but at allied prestige among the nervous neutrals.

So heavy was the obvious penalty for failure, that to my mind this attempted coup was the act of a leader who was sufficiently worried to feel driven to take a long chance.

Worried about what? Well, I'm not alone in the thought that the Anglo-French blockade—designed to strangle Germany into submission—has been much more effective than is generally believed.

Also the Nazis have been unable to secure from Russia and the Balkans anything like the supplies needed to replenish the home stocks.

It's safe to say the pressure was getting so uncomfortable that the Nazi chieftain felt drastic measures were called for.

Desperate fighting is on the books for the big clash between the invading Germans in Norway and the allied expeditionary forces. It's going to be no boy's job to oust the Nazis. Both sides will know they have been in a fight before they are through.

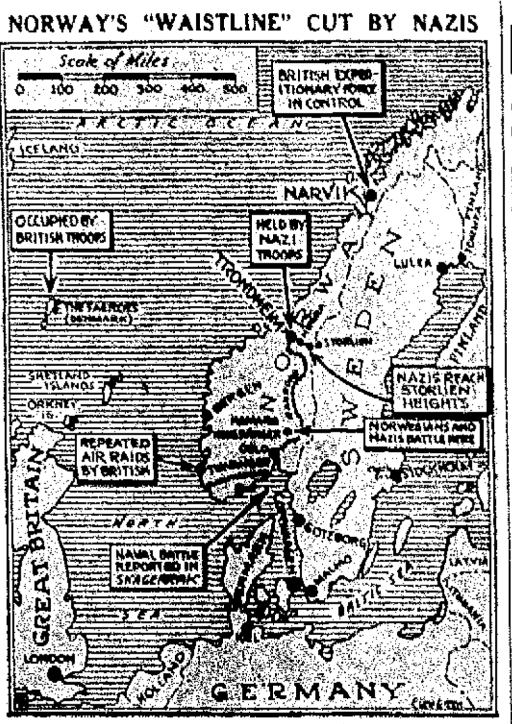
NORWAY'S "WAISTLINE" CUT BY NAZIS



Disposition of German, Allied and Norwegian troops is depicted clearly in this map which shows how Nazi soldiers drove across Norway from the west coast to the Swedish frontier. A ruse enabled the Germans to establish a line from Trondheim to the Storlein Heights at the Swedish border, and they later were reported to have cut their way across the country on two other lines.

Yugoslavs Start Roundup To Rid Nation of Nazis

By The Associated Press

BELGRADE, April 17—The Yugoslav government began today to clear the country of hundreds of German "visitors" suspected of spreading propaganda and spying for the German secret police.

The clean-up was begun in Belgrade, the capital, where thousands of leaflets telling Yugoslavs not to resist Germany had been scattered by Nazi sympathizers from automobiles.

These leaflets, distributed last Thursday just two days after the German invasion of Norway and Denmark, said: "Do not resist Germany if you value your freedom."

Officials said that public opinion urgently demands stern measures to protect the national security as a result of the invasion of Scandinavia.

Twenty Germans arrested immediately after the leaflet barrage were expelled from Yugoslavia, and an order was issued today that all other foreigners still in Belgrade must leave within ten days, unless they prove that their presence is "a benefit to the Yugoslav government."

A house-to-house search was decided upon by the police of the cities of Zagreb, Ljubljana and towns even closer to the German border.

The Scandinavian crisis brought into the open the government's farflung campaign against German espionage.

Germans Mop Up in Southern Norway

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, April 17—German troops hastened mopping up operations in southern Norway today behind a potential line of defense extending from the Atlantic port of Trondheim to the Swedish frontier, 50 miles away.

The front, apparently planned as a bulwark against possible attack by British troops reported to have landed on Norway's northern shores, was established yesterday when the invading Nazis gained control of an important railway cutting across the country's narrow "waist."

The only German armed forces north of Trondheim appeared isolated in the vicinity of Narvik, 400 miles away, and there was increasing evidence that the invaders intended to concentrate on consolidating their position behind the newly established line in middle Norway.

This theory was supported by official Berlin statements minimizing the importance of operations at Narvik, which Norwegian sources said already had been occupied by the allies, and emphasizing the strength of the German position in the south.

Observers pointed out that the Germans apparently have control of virtually all strategic points on the Norwegian coast below Trondheim, including the ports of Kristiansand, Bergen and Stavanger—and are in good position to repel allied attacks from the sea.

There were reports of scattered fighting in [illegible] Norway in

Attacks on British Reported in Berlin

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, April 17—A British battleship was hit squarely by a heavy-type air bomb, a destroyer was sunk and a transport ship also struck in an aerial attack, Germany reported officially today.

DNB, official German news agency, said that full details of aerial blows in a German attack on British naval force off the Norwegian southwest coast still were to be learned.

The report followed upon a German high command communique announcing the sinking of a destroyer.

It used much the same language to describe the air attack on the Battleship (Schlachtschiff) as the communique had in reporting the transport struck—"hit squarely by the heaviest caliber air bombs."

The communique enumerated these successes for the German expeditionary forces:

1. The sinking of a British destroyer of the "Tribal" class by a submarine northeast of the Shetland islands. (The London admiralty reported the loss of the 1,575-ton British submarine Thistle but has not mentioned the loss of a destroyer.)

2. A large transport ship "hit squarely by the heaviest caliber air bombs."

3. Norwegian forces in the north routed by Germans taking control of the ore-carrying railroad from Narvik east to the Swedish border.

The British destroyer reported [illegible] was of the same class as the [illegible] which Germans said was [illegible] left stranded in a battle at Narvik Saturday.

Altogether Britain had 16 of this class.

DNB announced that the latest attack on Narvik occurred last night.

The agency declared that no allied troops had been landed in Narvik (this is contrary to Norwegian reports) and said that the situation there, aside from the British bombardment, was unchanged.

DNB denied foreign reports of a German withdrawal toward the Swedish border, which is less than 20 [illegible]

Little Spitfire — By Jean Randall

YESTERDAY Mrs Arnold who has an exaggerated idea of her responsibility toward her thirty year old "girl" Dorothy says Brenda must give up seeing Saltus. Aroused Brenda refuses her promise to keep away from Saltus.

* * *

CHAPTER TWELVE

A Little Adjusting

"WHY can't I ask Dorothy to my room?" Brenda asked Adelaide after Mrs Arnold had left

Mrs Rossiter bridled gently

"Dorothy my dear child is a very stupid person one can hardly call her a girl I doubt if she reads a single book in a year She glances at the headlines of newspapers—if they have to do with murders Mrs Arnold's protectiveness toward her is almost a phobia I think the matron who put Dorothy in her care in the first place was largely responsible for it She kept impressing on the poor woman that the girl would receive her impressions from the person with whom she made her home It's ridiculous really—the way she spreads her skirts in front of Dorothy Eric and Isobel make all sorts of fun of her but Mac thinks it's sort of pathetic But then Mac—"

Brenda rose abruptly "I must get to work! And by the way Adelaide I've asked Hugh Saltus to come here this afternoon I hope you don't mind?"

Adelaide smiled demurely "This is a boarding house my dear Who your guests and callers are is certainly none of my business"

So Hugh came that afternoon his eyes wary as a wild animal's but his mouth sensitive and almost tremulously smiling

"You're sure you won't injure your social standing in The Street?" he inquired

"How absurd" Brenda exclaimed "I'm proud to have the great Mr Saltus calling let me tell you When my friends at home know—"

He looked alarmed "You haven't written them where I am? Oh Brenda I hope you haven't"

"Is it a secret?" In her turn she was disturbed "Because I'm afraid I have told one or two I'm so proud of knowing you you see Hugh why do you hide?"

"There are reasons" He seemed suddenly as vague as Adelaide herself "Never mind dear child I'm flattered that you are proud It's pretty swell—having a nice girl like you willing to know me"

The whole situation puzzled Brenda What if his wife had gone home and had not come back Did that affect the man himself or his work? Probably Brenda mused Mrs Saltus was a cat and Hugh was better off without her anyway He seemed a lonely soul poor Hugh!

"Who do you think you are?" Isobel inquired pleasantly that evening "Mrs Omnipotence For I tell you Brenda not even a Burnham can carry on with Hugh as you're doing and not get herself talked about"

"Carry on?" Brenda ruffled indignantly "I received a famous artist in the parlor of my boardinghouse—in the afternoon If that's carrying on I wonder what they'd think of some of the things that happen in the Village!"

"Ah but they wouldn't let them happen here you see! This street has been—well pure and undefiled in its morals since your grandfather's time perhaps before It's not for a young chit like you my sweet to come along and corrupt it"

"If it's never corrupted any more than I shall corrupt it it's most fortunate Yes Grenadine what is it?"

"Miss Mac say would you come down to the parlor a minute He'd like to speak to you private like"

Keep Out!

Brenda cocked a mocking eye at her caller "Now there Isobel is food for gossip if you like! A young eligible man craves private speech with me—and after nightfall! Hadn't you better call Miss Ormond and Mrs Arnold and tell them about it?"

In the parlor Mac said gravely "I've tried all evening to get a word in with you but I've had no luck so I sent Grenadine to ask you to come down I hope you didn't mind?"

"I simply wanted to warn you to keep out of the Abernathy-Barrow affair" he said "There are ramifications to it which you don't know which you needn't know Will you take my word that it's wisest to let the twins attend to their own affairs?"

The icy wrath which he had stirred in her twice before rose again

"No" she answered deliberately "I won't Won't take your word and won't keep out of their affair It seems to me to need a little adjusting And I'd have you know" she continued defiantly "that I've been asked to adjust it!"

"By whom?"

"By—Ned Barrow"

"I was afraid so," he sighed "My dear girl I wish you'd believe that I really want to be a friend of yours—not an enemy And as a friend I tell you that mixing up with Barrow and Alaine will bring down a lot of trouble on your head I know I've lived here several years and I understand the situation as you can't hope to do—not for months anyway Barrow heaven be praised has gone to California for two weeks Will you give me your word to do nothing about him and Alaine—most especially about Alaine—until he comes back?"

"My dear Mac" she began affably "your solicitude is most gratifying—most gratifying indeed But somehow I can't see how my helping a pair of lovesick youngsters out of a coil of trouble they've wound themselves up into is going to harm me in the least Likewise"—she cocked a mocking eye in his direction—"flattered as I am at your effort to look after me I'm at a loss to understand why—"

"Yes you said that before I wonder about it myself—sometimes Let's put it that I hate to see either fools or angels rushing in where they shouldn't tread"

"I being—?"

"Take your choice" he said and strolled away "My last word is you'll regret it deeply if you don't keep out of that mess!"

Very Unjust

Brenda had progressed from the first square to the second in her book She was supremely dissatisfied with the result but as she reminded herself almost tearfully she couldn't stay on one chapter forever

Viciously she had scratched out the word "sparkling" from the cardboard plan It was as much as she could do to get Margareth and Brian to open their mouths to each other much less engage in sparkling dialogue Their stiff formal sentences disgusted the young author beyond measure but try as she would nothing better came

"And this makes three days to one chapter at that!" she thought "At this rate I'll be forever writing the infernal book!"

She worked doggedly all morning and until nearly four in the afternoon when she decided that a brisk walk would clear her mind It was a heavenly day with a blue haze on the hills beyond the town

"I wish I had a car" she thought wistfully "I'd like to drive out there and see the river Oh" She bumped into a young man who came dashing up the steps just as she went down

"I beg your pardon!" His tone was distinctly sulky "I hope I haven't hurt—Oh it's you Miss Burnham!"

"Brenda" she corrected with a smile "Call me Brenda Ab"

"You recognize me then?"

"Of course You and Alaine make a rather impressive pair you know Did you want to see Adelaide? I'm afraid she's out just now"

He glowered at her "It's you I want to see"

"I?" She glanced again at his wrathful young face and took a sudden decision "That's your car at the curb isn't it? Well then suppose you take me for a little drive while we talk I was just wishing I could get out to those hills"

He hesitated Plainly the idea of driving about with whom he had come to quarrel was a trifle disconcerting to him

"You might as well" she assured him

"All right" He closed the door upon her careful even in his annoyance to see that her skirts were protected and went around to his own seat "Look here Miss Burnham I—"

"Brenda"

"Well, Brenda then But don't think that I intend being friends with you because I don't I know what you've been up to with Alaine I know you're encouraging her to marry Ned Barrow and I want to tell you—"

"Encourage her? My dear boy wasn't she packing to elope with him when I arrived on the scene? Didn't I talk her into postponing it merely to give her time to make up her quarrel with you? I think" Brenda concluded plaintively "you're very unjust"

"A lot I care what you think" he told her with boyish rudeness "If that was all that happened it would be O K But it wasn't all You sent Barrow off to California and got Alaine all stirred up over his going I tell you she never took him seriously before no matter how often she threatened to marry him But now—now You knew the one and identical thing to keep her thoughts on him make her wonder why he hasn't called or written."

"You understand a lot for a child of your age" she said coldly

"Child! I'm nearly twenty one And it doesn't take either age or wisdom to see through this little maneuver of yours"

The entertainment feature of luncheon program was a talk, illustrated with motion pictures, by Miss Aloha Baker, advertised as the "world's most traveled woman." Reviewing her travels she said she has crossed all the continents and visited 55 countries. Her subject was "Uncivilized." Motion pictures illustrating the talk were taken in New Zealand, Australia, India, and among island tribes.

The question of just what countries are civilized or uncivilized often depends upon the viewpoint of the people in those countries, Miss Baker informed her audience.

"Many of these people do have strange customs, but they think our customs are just as strange," she said. "We learn in traveling that it is always the 'other country' which is not civilized."

Miss Baker recalled that she asked an official in one of the far away undeveloped countries how a distinction was made between tribes regarded as civilized and those labeled uncivilized. "The civilized tribes," she was told, "are those that pay taxes.

Miss Baker was introduced to the club by George E. Planck, Rotary program chairman.

Guests of the club were James Nolan of Los Angeles, Calif., and Carl Gibson, Rotarian of Amherst, O.

Baby Feeding

How do you manage air swallowing burping and regurgitation in infants?

Air swallowing and burping go together and are common difficulties As a matter of fact air swallowing is probably due in most cases to excessive vigor on the part of the baby rather than an alarming habit A strong baby sucks voraciously and noisily on the nipple holding it tightly in his mouth and refusing to allow removal Soon the vacuum within the bottle equals the sucking power of the infant the formula ceases to flow, air enters the infant's mouth between lips and nipple Part of this air is swallowed part enters the bottle and the process is repeated The distended stomach filled with air and formula at first satisfies the infant and he stops nursing before emptying the bottle

Unless he burps the infant soon has acute discomfort and may show this by flexing thighs on abdomen and crying out and so disrupts the household To allow the air bubble to escape from the stomach the mother holds the infant vertically against her shoulder and pats the infant's back Chronic air swallowers should be burped three or four times this way during each feeding because if not "burped" until the feeding is completed the baby may bring up much of the feeding along with the air bubble

The question of the regurgitation of a small amount of food after each feeding may worry a mother considerably although it is of no consequence if the rate of weight gain and development is quite adequate

Questions and Answers

H A B: "I am bothered at night with an itching on my heels It seems to start in the evening after dinner The best I can describe it is that it is like a frostbite No breaking of the skin, just a dry tingle itching"

Answer—This is probably due to a circulatory disturbance either varicose veins or hardening of the arteries of the leg It may be increased by constriction of the legs from garters or elastic Also the shoes should have expert attention Diabetes may cause such a condition and therefore an examination of the urine for sugar is indicated

T J: "Will you please tell me if eating uncooked oatmeal would have any injurious effect? I started about three years ago and now I eat quite a good deal I just love it and would rather have it than almost anything else I have never felt as well in my life and have often felt that my system may need this roughage"

Answer — For those who are able to stand the roughage uncooked oatmeal is a good food Probably not as much of it is absorbed as cooked oatmeal but enough for nutritional purposes is

War Can Not Remain the Same

CONFUSED by mutually contradictory propaganda some Americans already have decided to postpone decision on the outcome of fighting in Scandinavia Events there will make themselves known in time the truth can't be concealed forever

Meanwhile there is something equally important to consider—the spread of the war It can not remain the same Either it must expand or shrink and it is not going to shrink Expansion will occur first perhaps in Sweden The Balkans are a possibility Spain is being mentioned Italy's neutrality is doubtful

Extremely interesting possibilities exist in the case of Italy, reported to be concentrating its navy in the Dodecanese Islands controlling approaches to the Dardanelles and the Suez canal Germany claims Italy shortly will be in the war on its side The hour of decision is at hand for Premier Mussolini

More than any other politician in Europe he is doomed to suffer because the war can not remain the same Either of the two sides is in position to attack Italy there is some reason for believing both of them would relish a chance to make his regime the scapegoat for their fury over the way chaos is developing

Italy may be among the next fresh victims of the war's spread which already has engulfed all of Europe north of the Brenner pass to the arctic circle For Premier Mussolini the statesman the man who made the trains run on time first the exemplar of dictatorial virtues the man who glorified war as the highest destiny attainable the teacher who showed Adolf Hitler how to turn the trick war engulfing Italy would be one last, needless touch of irony

Just Another Woman Driver

EVERY so often the sneers of the superior male at the antics of the opposite sex behind the steering wheel are choked off abruptly by a dissenter—who does not happen to be a woman

Dr Harry de Silva director of the driver research bureau of Yale university has checked and rechecked and still concludes that women are safer drivers than men in mixed traffic

This needs elaboration Women may be safer, but that doesn't mean they aren't more annoying in traffic They may get into fewer scrapes but that doesn't mean they aren't at the bottom of a lot of scrapes

What men mean by their steering wheel taunts is that women insist on carrying over into the catch as catch can conditions of automobile traffic the prerogatives of the age of chivalry They forget there is no chivalry in the automobile age If they don't think so they should hear what the men say when they try to exact some If strong words and hard looks could kill the mortality rate among women drivers would be something fierce

No Ill Effects So Far

THE Olympic committee's decision to run off tryouts for the games Finland won't be able to hold this year or any year soon turns on a delicate point

If the Olympic games are the goal of accomplishment for thousands of amateur athletes cancellation of the games because of war would destroy the goal Presumably with nothing to strive for athletes wouldn't strive Standards of performance would slump Athletics would suffer

This is supposed to be particularly true of non competitive sports such as running and jumping where athletes try to beat the record instead of their opponents It will be noted however that during last week end a new world's record for pole vaulting and the mile relay were set without benefit of incentive other than the urge to run faster and vault higher than anybody else

The decision to hold Olympic tryouts for the gratification of amateurs is commendable but like most committee decisions totally unnecessary

The Kinging Business

ONE of the tickling paradoxes of modern politics has been the kinging business in Norway Sweden and Denmark The northern triumvirate famed for devotion to democracy not only tolerated royalty but swore by it Gustav V of Sweden who refused to act like a king was—and is—one of the most popular public figures in the world

Christian X of Denmark and Haakon VII of Norway brothers have shared the fate reserved for political leaders who stand in Germany's way The former has disappeared from sight King Haakon has been dubbed a vassal of Britain His crime against the reich was to plot with the British to seize Norway according to the Germans who feel that he should have plotted with them instead Queen Maud who died in 1938 was the youngest daughter of King Edward VII of Great Britain

The World war was to have made things safe for democracy by abolishing monarchs but the idea never quite jelled

News Behind the News

Allied Good Will Ambassador to U S Reported Encountering Difficulties

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON Apr [illegible] When all conceded by United States statesmen the [illegible] British good will mission to Washington was somewhat the greatest [illegible] ing up proposed good will statements and preparing to depart there shores without leaving any The British goodwill man with the unusual name Mr Ashton-Gwatkin, and the French goodwiller M [illegible] P [illegible], exposed several anxious conferences here

Paul Mallon

ing [illegible] pleasantness and [illegible] especially [illegible] pointing about safeguarding American [illegible] or assuming the purchase of barred American products like tobacco and apples Some of the wording seemed to emphasize more the determination to maintain Allied belligerent rights than [illegible] the neutral rights of the United States

These were submitted to the state department where no effort was made to conceal a lack of enthusiasm As a result the statement due last week was not issued and Mr Ashton Gwatkin is off on a [illegible] to create a new contraband control [illegible] on which terms it be the single consolation the British were constrained to make

The eagerness of the Allies for American good will seemed to subside commensurately as reports piled in from Norway of German success Apparently the good will [illegible] thought the [illegible] patches would do them much better than any friendly concessions to American neutral rights.

Treachery Worries

The amazing tale of Nazi negotiated treachery in Norway and Denmark apparently are not only true but only half of what actually happened

Inner channels of diplomacy recounting unconfirmable incidents of Nazi infiltration have frightened every chancellory in the world to look into its own condition particularly Holland and Britain The Dutch started jailing and registering aliens Sunday when expelled British diplomats from Copenhagen brought word of what advance undermining had been done by Hitler there Within 24 hours Britain also began checking registration of the 70 000 aliens living there

Extravagant News

The Allies cleverly cushioned the news of Hitler's successful blow against them in Scandinavia with downy rumors of an extravagant nature Most extravagant of all was the account of mine laying hundreds of miles through the Skaggerak Kattegat and even over to the Lithuanian border cutting off Kiel and North German Baltic ports This was supposed to have been done one afternoon between lunch and tea

If the British ever laid any mines in the area they were no doubt late for tea as six months were required for the Americans to lay a much less arduous but more valuable field across the top of the North Sea in the World war

The area mentioned in admiralty accounts could be invaded only by submarines These carry on the average 30 mines each The suspicion here is that several submarines may have slipped through and laid some isolated surface mines but no a field.

Mexican Wrath

Mexican wrath against the United State for daring to suggest that she pay for seized American property is being brought home to officialdom here by the experiences of recently returned American travelers

A commercial aviation expert and an American magazine writer have reported that anti American feeling has been stirred up so strenuously by politicians in the race that small boys now throw stones at known gringos along the Mexican streets In Mexico City a group of a dozen American left wingers from New York were observed organizing an anti-American parade

Mexico has apparently learned and accepted the principles of democracy as practiced in Russia and Germany rather than the United States Pictures and posters of only one candidate Avila Camacho appear on all buildings in all cities Inquiries as to whether there are any other candidates are met with responses that the soldiers of President Cardenas believe the posters of opposition candidates are not sufficiently artistic to decorate any public place and therefore were removed

The injustices of American commercial exploitation are still fresh in the Mexican mind and seem to justify any slight or retributive injustice against Americans now The situation is becoming so serious the President may be required to send a more active and efficient ambassador to Mexico City

Mussolini Bluffs

Some day one of Mussolini's bluffs is going to come true but not any of the pending ones, in the opinion of the best official poker advisers here Il Duce's gesture moving the fleet into the Dodecanese Islands was accepted around the lop as a move to keep Turkey from letting the Allies go through the Dardanelles Explosive results are not expected

The Italian game is to go with the breeze but the wind reaction of the German invasion of Scandinavia is probably not yet sufficiently strong to blow Mussolini off his neutral perch

U. S. Secrets Sold?

Discovery of Nazi Letter, Leads To Investigation

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON April 17—Headwinds that forced the westbound Atlantic Clipper into Bermuda recently blew the top off a leak in United States naval secrets—a leak that leads to Nazi Germany

The story has not been told It's an official secret confined to international circles U S naval intelligence and perhaps the federal bureau of investigation All will offer in comment only that irritating Washington stymie Just say that we refuse to confirm or deny

Jack Stinnett

But here it is from one of those newsman's delights ordinarily reliable sources

The Atlantic Clipper winging west out of the Azores fought headwinds that would have driven Columbus armada back to Spain All that happened was an alarming depreciation of the gasoline supply—but the skipper figuring that safety was better than sorrow put in a Bermuda for fuel

The British government there ever on qui vivre called its disbanded censorship staff from basking on the beaches and riding bicycles in the warm winter sun Within an hour or so 1 628 pounds of mail had been taken off the Clipper for censorship More than 800 pounds of it was mail from Germany

Among this was a letter from some Nazi somewhere that left the British censors gasping They forwarded it by cable to the United States naval intelligence department here

The contents of that letter left no doubt in anyone's mind U S naval secrets were being sold through some foreign espionage agency to Germany

Investigations were started immediately and I have it on high authority that some person or persons already have been taken into custody—but here again it's that We do not confirm or deny

It's An Ill Wind—

In [illegible] censorship and mail seizure idea of that has been overlooked

No [illegible] a man (or woman) had come under suspicious could any officer [illegible] espionage or subversive activities plunder the United States mail

It's another side of the picture that critics of British high handedness (some even have called it hijacking) regarding the U S mail have ignored

I don't say that the British (or any one else) are privileged to tap one single pipeline of foreign communications bearing an American stamp but I can help repeating that it's an ill wind that doesn't blow somebody some thing

It's Happened Before

This is merely history repeating itself In the World war it was Great Britain that pointed the way to disclosure of the Zimmerman notes which allegedly built up a pretty big case against Germany's interest in the affairs in Mexico (supposedly to distract the United States from intervention in the European war)

Again it was Great Britain that uncovered the reported perfidy of one Mr Franz von Papen attache of the German embassy Mr Von Papen so the story goes had negotiated for sabotage of certain U S industries and waterways For years Von Papen was under indictment in the United States — undoubtedly would be under suspicion if he returned today although the indictment has been dismissed

Both of these could have been the activities of British propaganda agent So could be the present disclosure of a leak in U S naval secrets to Nazi Germany

But who's fooling who and why isn't important What's vital to our interests is that something's up and in a big way The British seizure of mail finally has disclosed a bug in the woodpile and it's up to the F B I naval intelligence or somebody to smoke him out and find out whose flag he's flying

If Great Britain is up to one of its propaganda tricks—it's time we found out If Nazi Germany is getting sticky fingers where U S naval secrets are concerned then it's time some misguided soul went to jail

It's all right to shush shush these things as long as no one is sure about anything but once the espionage die is cast We the Public should have a look in

U. S. "Villagers" Astir

From The Wall Street Journal

THIS year more than in any year of recent memory the quality of our national and local governments is coming home to the rank and file of American citizens No better proof of a fresh stirring of the civic spirit among the common people could be asked than the reception being given to The Village Movement which originated in Scarsdale, Westchester county a scant six weeks ago and has already spread well beyond the boundaries of New York state

The Village Movement is local, spontaneous and non partisan It is to have no national or overhead organization but is expected to grow widely by the contagion of ideas Its title is no bar to the participation of towns and even cities as experience has proved It has a single aim, the restoration in the United States of genuinely representative government This purpose is the substance of the 10 principles to which The Village movement will ask all the 1940 conventions of both major parties to pledge their nominees for all offices These principles are

1. Uphold the division of power which the Constitution of the United States ordains between judicial executive and legislative branches

2 Protect and preserve state rights and home rule for local communities maintain peace, freedom of worship freedom of assembly free press free radio and free speech by every medium of communication

3 Restore to our federal government simplicity of form and economy of operation

4 Resist further governmental experiments until there has been a period of constructive readjustment

5 Foster private competitive enterprise with equal opportunity and resist government encroachment upon legitimate business

6 Promote conditions favoring exchange of goods and services a high level of production with full employment for all and opportunity for youth

7 Promote the highest possible standard of living by the encouragement of labor agriculture and industry and set up local non partisan machinery to aid those in need

8 Foster all social improvements of reasonable character of which the country can pay for and resist the coercive tactics of all pressure groups

9 Support labor in its right to work and to bargain collectively through agencies of its own choosing with such regulation and supervision as will assure both the worker and employers rights to democratic self control

10 Support for and appoint to public office men and women regardless of party who with courage and independence will work to further these ends

CONSISTENTLY with this avowed intention to resist the centralization of governmental power the Village Movement has been and will be provided with its modest expense budget by a large number of small contributors not by large individual contributions Each of the more than 300 communities which have formed or are forming committees to take up the work will provide for its own needs and assume no further responsibility

At the outset the Village Movement faced the question Will the workingman the small merchant the white collar worker of humble status—will these and their kind take it on? For only if it was and remained their movement could it hope to succeed to any worthwhile extent The answer, to date is that these men and women are eager to take it on They are themselves forming the local committees through which they plan to give effect to their thought and feeling about the governments over them And surprisingly perhaps — or perhaps not on second thought—WPA jobholders and relief recipients have welcomed the idea for which The Village Movement stands as offering them the hope of release from a status which in their hearts they adhor

To return government to the people may be a somewhat abstract idea but it can be given a highly practical meaning when taken up from the village point of view namely that the people can do more for themselves than governments can ever do for them

Ethel's Pop's Afraid the Census Fellows May Miss Him; Wants To Tell Them a Thing or Two

By DAMON RUNYON

Mr Joe Turp Writes From Brooklyn

DEAR SIR Last night when I was getting ready to go to bed my wife Ethel ses I forgot to tell you My pops was over to see me today I ses is he in some kind of trouble She ses he certainly not. My pops is never in trouble Why my pops ses himself he would run 10 miles any time to keep out of trouble I ses yes I guess he would.

Ethel ses Joe you sound sarcastic and I ses why Dolly I am just agreeing with you She ses well I don't know Joe You are very strange about anything that happens to my pops I call the least little thing trouble. My pops of course if he accidentally stumbles into trouble sometimes he just has to make the best of it but he would never go looking for trouble.

I ses look Ethel I ses I know all about your pops and trouble I ses what was he here for and how is he feeling and how is your mom Ethel ses O pop feels fine and moms is well and he came here just to find out if the census fellows had been around to see us I ses what census fellows? She ses why the ones who are taking the census for the government Haven't you read about that?

I ses O sure I have I ses I didn't know what you were talking about at first I ses have any of them been here yet? Ethel ses no Joe and that is what I told my pops when he asked if they had been around I ses have they been to see him? Ethel ses no and that was what was bothering him. I ses what does he care? They can't be no bargain to him because they are going to ask a lot of questions and usually he does not like to answer questions.

ETHEL ses that's right Joe They are going to come sneaking and snooping around sticking their noses into everybody's private affairs and asking them about the most sacred things on this earth They are going to come creeping and crawling into people's homes and poking and prying with their long noses into the most intimate matters that you would not want to tell somebody on your deathbed and also making a joke of personal liberty

I ses Ethel you sound just like your pops himself She ses well I listened to him very close Joe He came over early so I had plenty of time They will be dipping their noses into every nook and corner of people's lives dragging their innermost secrets out of them and putting them on file somewheres to be used against them later on the rascals. It just shows you what this country is coming to when they can send snoopers sneaking around sticking their long noses into people's personal affairs.

I ses look Ethel I ses in the first place those guys may not have long noses. I ses some of them may have noses as short as yours only not as cute I ses in the second place they will no come sneaking around but will walk up to the front door and knock as polite as anybody in the world and they will not ask any questions that somebody would be ashamed to answer

SHE SAYS are you sure about the noses Joe? My pops kept mentioning their long noses I ses sweets your pops must have been in pretty good form and she ses yes he was Joe I think he was practicing I ses practicing for what? She ses for those census fellows. He is going to tell them what he thinks of them when they come around sticking their long noses into his business.

Joe my pops seemed awfully sure they have long noses because he kept speaking of them that way He went all over the neighborhood today before he came here trying to find some of them to tell them what he thinks of them He will be brokenhearted if they miss him

I ses Ethel he needn't worry I ses they will not miss him and he will probably refuse to tell them anything they want to know She ses certainly he will refuse Joe My pops is not going to tell them a thing except what he thinks of them I ses then they will put him in jail I ses it will be a fine thing to have a father in law in jail just because he will not answer a few questions, I ses Ethel you tell your mom to make your pops behave himself when the census fellows come around to see him

ETHEL ses can they put him in jail for a little thing like that? I ses you bet they can and she ses well then I better tell mom but do you know what my pops ses Joe? I ses Ethel I am so worried about him going to jail that I don't care what he ses. She ses he ses this government is against him and he would not be surprised if they had told the census fellows to keep away from him so he cannot get a chance to tell them what he thinks of them

I ses Ethel I think I will turn in now and she ses but don't you want to hear what my pops told me to do if those fellows come around here shoving their long noses into our private affairs? I ses no but don't you do it baby She ses certainly not Joe I am a lady I ses good night Ethel

Yours truly

Jones was opposed in the general election by W. W. Tuttle, the first Republican candidate for governor in many years, who got only a handful of votes.

Census Work In Marion Area at Half-Way Mark

Task of counting Marion residents in the decennial United States census has reached the half-way point, officials at the district headquarters here reported today.

Several enumerators in the city have completed the work of contacting all homes in their respective districts. All of them, however, still must conduct a survey of the vacant dwellings before finally winding up their work.

Schedules for the housing census are expected here shortly. They began nose-counting April 2 and probably will complete work in the city within the next two weeks, officials estimated.

Enumerators handling the farm census probably will need several extra weeks to finish their work. The agricultural portion of the enumeration is more detailed and the fact that rural homes are widely scattered accounts for the added time necessary, officials pointed out.

Enumerators Reach 100 Million Mark

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 17—The census bureau passed its count of the 100,000,000th American today, with about 30,000,000 yet to go.

Officials figured that the door-to-door phase of the decennial population check which started April 2 ought to be finished in another week. The census-takers can't be paid their 4 cents a name until they complete their districts.

In most places, at least one call has been made at every home, but a footsore enumerator near Zanesville, O., complained that he had made 11 unsuccessful trips to the same house.

No trends of population are visible from the figures sent in so far.

A man claiming to be 120 was found in Pennsylvania.

When the door-to-door phase is completed, the bureau will start the tabulating job, parts of which will take years. State and national totals ought to be ready during the summer.

GENERAL MOTORS MEN CAST NLRB VOTE TODAY

A.F.L. and C.I.O. Contest for Bargaining Rights.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, April 17—A year-long battle between C.I.O. and A.F.L. auto workers unions for dominance in General Motors corporation plants culminated today in national labor relations board elections involving nearly 137,000 employes.

The workers, leaving their jobs at times designed to cause the least interruption to production, cast their ballots at polling places inside the plants.

Most of them marked their preference either for the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.), the United Automobile Workers (A.F.L.), or "neither." In individual departments of a few plants, pattern makers and die sinkers' unions, both A.F.L. organizations, were on the ballot.

The election was the largest ever attempted by the NLRB, with more than twice as many eligible workers as cast ballots in a Chrysler Corp. poll several months ago which the U.A.W.-C.I.O. won by a large majority.

FAMED SURGEON'S WIDOW NAMED AMERICAN MOTHER

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 17 — Mrs. Edith Graham Mayo of Rochester, Minn., widow of the distinguished surgeon Charles H. Mayo, is the "American mother for 1940" because she represents "the best there is in womanhood."

Her selection was announced last night by the American Mothers' National committee of the Golden Rule Foundation. She has been asked to represent the nation's mothers in New York on Mothers' day, Sunday, May 12.

In Tucson, Ariz., her winter home, the mother of eight children, five of whom are living, expressed surprise at her selection.

The honor "just scares me," she said, adding "I am sure it is more on account of my husband than myself."

She was a nurse before she married Dr. Mayo in 1893.

NAVY MAINTENANCE BILL TO RUN HIGH

Committee Told Cost Will Be Billion a Year.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 17—The navy told congress today that the United States would have a billion-a-year bill to maintain the fleet and its air arm at the expanded strength now contemplated.

The annual upkeep estimate of about $1,157,647,100 was submitted to the senate naval committee, which is studying the house-approved program for an 11 per cent increase in the fleet at a cost of about $655,000,000.

An even heavier maintenance bill was likely if congress follows the recommendations of Admiral Harold R. Stark for a 25 per cent expansion of the fleet. The chief of naval operations held the bigger boost necessary to restore the country's 5-to-3 treaty ratio over Japan.

The 11 per cent fleet increase authorizes 43 additional ships and 1,011 planes, but does not set aside funds. Building costs, the navy pointed out, would have to be absorbed over several years.

While the naval committee heard this testimony, other phases of the national defense problem drew senate attention.

The war department's request for funds to start work on a $277,000,000 set of bomb-proof locks for the Panama Canal drew the fire of senate economy advocates who contended that the army had failed to establish any need for the new locks.

At the same time the senate heard that the war department intended to request $8,000,000 to start immediate work on an air base at Anchorage, Alaska, and a cold-weather aviation experiment station at Fairbanks, Alaska.

In New York, the navy set June 13 for the launching of the $65,000,000 U. S. S. North Carolina—the first dreadnaught to be commissioned in 19 years.

Other assertions made by the navy today in reply to committee questions included:

American military secrets are not being released to belligerents.

It seems probable that 40,000 tons will be the minimum for future battleship construction.

The navy now has 1,780 useful planes on hand, 952 on order and 171 appropriated for.

CLERK SAVES NEW CAR BUT TAKES A BEATING

Grabs Keys After Murderers Suddenly Attack Him.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 17 — Pride in his new car led George Kologi, a slight, undersized bank bookkeeper, to risk his life twice last night in a successful fight to save the vehicle from two men believed fleeing after a slaying.

Shortly after two men called Thomas Silvino, 22, bakery salesman, from a lunch room a few blocks away and shot him to death, two armed men climbed into Kologi's car and told him to drive them away.

When he refused, they dragged him from the car, beat him with their gun butts and drove off. Kologi, still dazed, ran after them and leaped on the rear bumper.

A few blocks farther on the car picked up two more men. They saw Kologi and all four swarmed over him, beating and kicking him as he fought back.

Although two bullets were fired at him, Kologi managed to run around to the left of the car, grab its ignition key and escape.

The four escaped in another car.

Republicans Make Appeal To Youth in Stassen Choice

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 17—Republican leaders hailed today as an accent on youth and "liberalism" the selection of Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota and Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts as keynote speaker and permanent chairman, respectively, ofthe party's national convention at Philadelphia June 24.

The choices, made by the arrangements committee in Philadelphia yesterday, are subject to approval by the convention itself, but a spokesman at party headquarters here said that would be a matter of course.

James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, has yet to fix a date for a meeting of his party's arrangements committee.

Two candidates for the Republican presidential nomination, Senators Taft of Ohio and Vandenberg of Michigan, were among those who described the Martin and Stassen choices as "excellent."

"Both are satisfactory to me," said Taft. "I think it a very good idea to put a young man like Stassen out in front. Martin will provide the experience."

Senator Austin of Vermont, assistant Republican floor leader, said Stassen's selection indicated that the party was ready to recognize youthful voters as an important factor in the coming election.

"I think it also indicates a trend toward more liberal view in the party," Austin added.

Martin, at 51, is winding up his first term as house Republican leader. He is a North Attleboro, Mass., newspaper publisher.

Stassen was only 33 last Saturday when he attended his second gridiron dinner here.

Elected governor at 31, Stassen has announced for another term. Some of his supporters here say he might be groomed to run for the senate in 1942 against Senator Lundeen, Farmer-Labor.

STATE TURNS OVER RAIL FUND TO U. S.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 17—The bureau of unemployment compensation proposed today transfer of $7,752,285 of its $141,000,000 trust fund to the federal railroad unemployment insurance fund.

Railroad workers were insured under the Ohio unemployment compensation law prior to June 30, 1939, when the federal railroad unemployment insurance act became effective. Under provisions of the law, contributions to state jobless funds by railroad companies during 1936, 1937 and up to June 30, 1939, less benefits paid out, were to be transferred to the federal agency.

BUC officials said the transfer involved dropping 95 interstate railroad employer accounts and 75,000 workers.

DEWEY CHALLENGES TAFT IN MARYLAND

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 17—Thomas E. Dewey, New York City prosecutor, has challenged Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio to enter the Maryland Republican preferential primary.

J. Russel Sprague, Dewey's campaign manager, invited all candidates for the Republican nomination to enter the May 6 primary with the New Yorker, adding: "We call this invitation to the paricular attention of Senator Taft."

Dewey's supporters said specific mention of Taft resulted from claims which they said Taft forces had made to Maryland's 16 delegates to the national convention.

Ski Troops Attack

Kongsvinger, northeast of Oslo, and about 30 miles from the Swedish frontier, was reported occupied by the Germans after street fighting with a small force of Norwegians left to impede the advance.

Norwegian military headquarters announced that ski troops had made a successful counter attack on the flank of German forces near Hakadal, east of Oslo, but said that farther south the defenders were retiring before strong Nazi units.

Scattered remnants of the Norwegian army continued to pour across the southern border into Sweden, where they were disarmed and interned.

The Norwegians said their positions in the Fosseim district, 125 miles northwest of Oslo, still were intact. They reported two German planes shot down during yesterday's operations and said that the three other Nazi planes which made forced landings in the border area southeast of Oslo had been destroyed.

German sources announced the surrender of several thousand Norwegian officers and men, who, they said, would be treated as prisoners of war.

Strong German forces were reported moving south out of Trondheim, apparently with the object of making contact with Nazi forces driving north from Oslo.

There were unconfirmed rumors of naval fighting off the southern tip of Norway.

Advices reaching Stockholm said the Germans had gained control of the railway from Trondheim to the Swedish border by an audacious ruse.

Through false information supplied to railway employes, the Germans gained free passage for a train crowded with Nazi troops.

Wounded Norwegians taken to Kiruna, Sweden, brought fresh tales of tragedy on the part of their own officers. One soldier said that all the officers, in his unit had deserted except one ensign and a captain. The ensign, he declared, had shot down a superior officer who ordered the unit to surrender.

Sweden, continuing to prepare for any eventuality, placed all petroleum, fuel and oil supplies under government control.

All important Swedish ports on the south coast were declared barred territories.

KANSAS CITY, April 17—Five bands, enlisted by fusionist leaders, blare out Kansas City's good news today: A mayor and seven councilmen elected on a cleanup pledge replace Tom Pendergast's Democratic machine puppets in city hall.

It's the first time since the city adopted a nonpartisan, charter form of government in 1926 that a nonpartisan ticket actually has taken office. In the first election under the charter, both Democrats and Republicans nominated candidates. Pendergast's Democrats won and started building his amazing machine which shocked the nation.

John B. Gage, 53-year-old Democratic lawyer, was elected mayor two weeks ago by a fusion of Democrats, Republicans and nonpartisan women and business leaders. Pendergast and several lieutenants are in prison for income tax evasion.

Marriage Meddlers

Madge Realizes Success of Her Mission As Miss Carman Produces Archives of Family.

MISS CARMAN rose from her chair as she bade us wait for her return, and made her way to the door with far more celerity than her age would have led us to expect. I had no opportunity to comment upon her prompt and surprising response to my appeal, for Lillian rose from her chair the instant little Miss Carman had disappeared through the door, and swept the floor in front of me with an imaginary plumed hat and a most exaggerated bow.

"Oh, Lady! Lady!" she murmured. "Can you wow 'em? She evidently has all the dope we need. And—I'll stake my worthless head on her keeping mum."

"She gave us her word," I said, "and the Annie Carmans of her generation hold their pledged word sacred."

Lillian nodded assent as she held up a cautioning finger.

Successful Mission

"I hear footsteps," she whispered, and the next instant the door opened, and Miss Carman came back into the room, carrying a bulky pile of flat paper files which she put upon the cleared tea table with a sigh of relief.

"I cannot let these go out of my possession," she said, "but you are at liberty to copy them here if you wish. I have blank sheets of paper, pencils, rulers, pens and ink in my desk yonder. As you probably guessed, there are maps among these papers which you ought to copy."

For a second I could not answer her, for the consciousness of achievement where I had dreaded failure was thrilling me, almost choking me. But in another instant I had conquered my voice, and I tried to express what I felt.

"Dear Miss Carman," I said a bit unsteadily, "I cannot tell you what this gracious courtesy of yours means to us. We never can thank you sufficiently."

A smile which had a touch of mischief in it curved the little old woman's lips.

Thrilled by Disclosures

"And I never can thank you enough," she said, "for letting me share so thrilling a secret as you have just confided to me. There isn't much excitement in an old woman's life, you know. Indeed," she added reflectively. "My whole life has been rather humdrum. I have enjoyed a great deal of pleasure looking over the archives of my family, some of whom, goodness knows, had exciting adventures enough, and now it thrills me tremendously to know that those old records in my hands can help my country, as you say they can."

"I have no doubt of it," I returned emphatically. "You see, my father, when he discovered the presence of the men in the attic, checked with the guards surrounding the house and realized that there must be a secret and unsuspected ingress into the attic which these men must have discovered. The men are now incommunicado, and there are guards stationed in the attic. But we must find out the location of the secret entrance in order that my father's guards may be able to cope with the marauders."

Miss Carman's Role

"How did you find out about me?" she asked, and I guessed that she was postponing the climax of my story, saving and savoring it as she might a Christmas box of bon-bons.

"Of course, the first question in my father's mind," I said, "was the name of the family who originally owned the house. This he obtained from Mr. Bates, the real estate agent, and he also found out that you were a direct descendant of the original owners. He said also that he would tell you we were coming to see you."

"Well, he didn't," she answered a bit tartly. "He's tried to arrange interviews with me before, and I always refused him, so he probably thought better of it. I'm glad he didn't. It might have given me a wrong idea of what you wanted of me. The last time he wanted to arrange an interview it was with a woman who wanted to buy my furniture, and not a piece of that will be sold as long as I have a breath in my body and a cent to buy a piece of bread."

Her face was suddenly dark and fierce, but in a moment it cleared again, and she began to untie the bulky parcel she had laid upon the table.

"We might as well get started," she said.

Fire Causes

There are more ways to start a fire than to put one out, ac- g to the annual report of Chief McFarland. Some of e frequent causes of fires 1939 were: chimneys burning matches thrown in grass, bon out of control, sparks from ad engines in grass, defec- electrical equipment.

Other causes listed are:

ire and matches, children and matches, burning corn fodder, cigarets on awnings (also on chairs, davenports, tables and porch roof), electric motors in refrigerators, lightning, meat in the oven, using gasoline to start a fire, cleaning with gasoline, leaky gasoline stoves, careless fumigation, combustion in oily rags, smoking in bed.

Most frequent causes of fires in automobiles and garages were short circuits, flooded carburetors and cigarets dropping on cushions.

Can't Quit

E. B. "Bert" Powell, for years a Marion policeman, can't quite give up his police work now that he is retired. Recently he presented the department with the fourth novel "tire marker" which he has made. Mr. Powell makes them from broom handles, boring a small hole in one end to hold a piece of chalk. The sticks are long enough so that the policeman doesn't have to bend down to mark the tires of automobiles being checked for overtime parking.

Waitresses' Problems

Another one of those things we've frequently wondered about is how waitresses can assemble some dozen scattered orders, walk back to the chef and repeat them without any slips, and 10 or 15 minutes later pick up those orders and serve them without getting all twisted up. We asked a waitress about it the other day.

"I never get mixed up—except for rare exceptions—unless I start writing down orders, and then I invariably get mixed up," she said. The fact that the waitress may or may not know the customer has little to do with keeping the orders straight, she commented. In fact, she has no particular system for associating customers and orders — "I just remember them, that's all," she said.

We wondered to what practical limits a waitress might work in handling a large volume of orders.

"Well," she said, "the other Sunday morning 18 fellows came in here at one time. It was about 8 a. m. and I was the only waitress on the job. These fellows didn't order just rolls and coffee—every one of them had bacon and eggs, wheat cakes or some order like that, with some fruit or cereal to start them off. I took all 18 orders at once without writing down a thing, relayed the orders to the chef and served them all without any hitches."

We commented that such a feat required composure and concentration.

"I'm afraid I had neither," she answered. "Since it was so early in the morning, one of the boys working here had removed a rubber mat from the tile floor in the aisle to the kitchen. As I was on my way to give the orders to the chef, my foot slipped on the tile floor and down I went. However, I still managed to keep the orders straight.

Every restaurant has its own system of words to handle orders. Where this waitress worked, "one up" means for the chef to set out a bowl of soup which preceded a majority of the luncheon and dinner specials. For example, the waitress may call out, "Roast beef and one up," which tells the chef to start laying out a roast beef dinner but to serve the soup right away. A little later, the waitress will call out, "Pick up roast beef," which tells the chef the customer has finished his soup and is ready for the roast beef to be served.

City Finance Tips

A couple of times recently novel solutions to the city's financial woes have been suggested, possibly not in seriousness for the most part.

One involves the city's lot at Prospect and Church streets, former site of the city hall, and now a haven for distracted motorists seeking a place to park.

Someone suggested auctioning the thing off and figured it should bring about $100,000 plus an annual revenue from taxes. This proposal has been made to officials a dozen times in recent years.

Another person feels the lot could well be rented out to some enterprising businessman who would conduct it as a parking lot, charging a reasonable fee and keeping it in better condition than it is now.

However, officials generally frown on such proposals, feeling that some time the city may wish to put a city hall on the lot.

Another frequently heard solution is that the city exact tribute from the "numbers" racket and other gambling enterprises by the simple process of periodically arresting to many and fining them. One Ohio city is reportedly following this procedure with considerable success.

Still another, and probably not possible under law, is to conduct a municipal lottery such as some foreign countries have.

Latest is the proposal that city council stage a "blitzkrieg" on some tax-productive areas in Marion county and take them into the city as a sort of protectorate. Mentioned were the valuable Scioto power plant and some of the more prosperous villages.

Who Cuts Barber's Hair?

There are many things we have often wondered about, but have never troubled to investigate. The other day we decided to find out about one of them and asked our barber who cuts his hair.

It appears he has some other barber do it, which sounds reasonable. However, he said, some barbers do it by themselves, apparently not trusting their fellow craftsmen.

Further conversation brought out the fact that egg shampoos are swell for the hair. One customer regularly brings along a little sack of eggs. During the last war such luxuries were taboo, the government reserving all eggs for internal use.

War Behind the War

Battle for Scandinavia Clears Way For Sea Power vs. Air Power Test

... the second of two articles ... with the condition ... Hitler to carry the ... Scandinavia.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, April 17—The ... Scandinavia sets the ... the world's first clear-... of sea power against air ...

... whatever reasons lay be-... battle, and whatever the ... confusion may be, ... main facts stick out: ... Germans lured British ... within close range of ... bombing planes, and ... to get into a position ... the eastern rim of the ... Sea. Victory might well ... by invasion of Holland and Belgium—to control ... rim of the North Sea. The next step would be air blitzkrieg against the British Isles, and an attempt to sweep the English Channel clear of blockading British forces. That would separate the Franco-British Allies, and clear the way for the food and raw materials the Germans so desperately need.

2. The British on the other hand, have got the Germans in the open by their threat against Germany's Swedish iron ore supplies.

Now that the Germans are in the open, the British are in a position to establish a new front in the war by the use of their strongest force—their fleet. Victory would mean they had flanked the German west wall, and established a new front on the north.

Only the future can tell which of these two strategies will prevail.

I have discussed the North Sea strategy with half a dozen American experts—political and economic experts, as well as military men.

Most of these men agreed that the Scandinavian action by the Germans was dictated by Germany's need of Sweden's iron ore, and by Germany's coming food crisis. They believe the Germans themselves do not look upon Norway as the best possible hop-off for an aerial blitzkrieg against the Allies, but chose Norway because they hoped they could kill two birds with one stone. They might (1) beat the British to the draw, and prevent the complete blockading of Swedish iron ore, and (2) begin their air blitzkrieg preparations from Norway, and extend it to bases in Belgium and the Netherlands if and when they won an established position in the North.

At Stake: The North Sea

It all simmers down to a battle for control of the North Sea. And again the broad strokes of strategy are the same that produced the World war battle of Jutland.

The German strategy at Jutland was to lure the British fleet one by one. The British strategy was to lure the Germans out of the Helgoland Bight in large force, and administer a beating in the open North Sea.

Oddly enough, both strategies worked. When Admiral Beatty's cruiser fleet encountered advance forces of the German fleet off Denmark's Jutland, he gave battle, and the Germans retired toward their main fleet. He allowed himself to be sucked right under the guns of the main line of German battleships before he turned, and fled—toward his own main fleet further north. The Germans pursued, and that brought both high-seas fleets together.

Darkness saved the German fleet from annihilation, but the German fleet never came out in the North Sea again, and the British blockade became absolute.

What's The Difference?

This time the pattern of the strategy is almost exactly the same. The difference lies in the fact that the Germans have no high seas fleet to speak of, but they do have a superior air force and mechanized army equipment.

And by their invasion of the north countries, the Germans have lured the British fleet within close range of their big bombers, and are working from land positions with a mechanized army in Norwegian territory. Apparently the British, knowing there is no German high seas fleet worthy of the name, were willing to run the risk of big German bombers.

So they closed in on the Skagerak and Kattegat and used their sea forces to destroy Germany's commercial shipping, to break communications across to Denmark, and also to strike at as much of the German fleet as must stay in the open to protect supply lines.

All this adds up to the fact that the British are staking their sea power against German air power, and the Germans must stake their army and air force against the British sea power.

Scholarship Teams of County Schools Named

Winners of County Event To Take Part in State Competition at Columbus May 4.

The scholarship teams which will represent the Marion county rural schools in district and state scholarship examinations in Columbus May 4 were announced today by D. T. Mills, county school superintendent.

The students were selected from a group of more than 250 contestants who took part in an examination at Harding High school April 6. Ties in several tests made it necessary to hold second and even third examinations in some subjects to select the teams, Mr. Mills reported.

Two groups of examinations will be held in Columbus, one covering general academic subjects and the other covering work in high school commercial courses. Both groups are to be held at Ohio State university campus under the supervision of the state department of education. District and state honors will both be computed on the basis of these examinations.

While no prizes are offered, the test scores frequently may be used by high-ranking students to obtain scholarships from colleges and universities, Mr. Mills reported. The general academic team is composed of:

Biology, Albert Hogue and Marjorie Cook, both of Pleasant township; chemistry, Tommy Baker of Prospect and Jacob Retterer of Claridon; general science, David Stewart of Pleasant and Don Kuhlen of Agosta; physics, J. Fred Lauer and Donald Dodrill, both of Prospect; algebra, Charles Schorr of Prospect and Dorothy Ann Bloomingdale of Green Camp; plane geometry, Millard Hammon Jr. and Evelyn Ruth, both of Green Camp; American history, Robert Haas of Caledonia and James Trefz of Waldo; world history, Florence Gibb of Morral and Dorothy Kline of Green Camp; Latin I, Peggy Jean Keefe of LaRue and Eileen Fetter of Prospect; Latin II, Juanita Augenstein of Pleasant and Mary Alice Lanius of Green Camp; English I, John Milton Haberman of Green Camp and Jane Brundige of Waldo; English II, Polly Morrison of Green Camp and Eleanor Eaton of Prospect; English III, William Shuey of Prospect and Maureen Zachman of Pleasant; English IV, Doris Canterbury and Frances Wheeler, both of Prospect; French, Erma Fern Miller of Morral.

Those on the commercial team are: bookkeeping I, Gene Dunkin and Arthur Barnett, both of LaRue; shorthand, Annette Boyd and Mabel Gorentlo, both of Pleasant; typing, John H. Lauer of Prospect and Esther Key of Pleasant.

FELLER'S NO HITTER HIGHLIGHTS BIG LEAGUE OPENER

Bob Sets Record for First Game of Season; Flinging Fancy in All Tilts.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Big league baseball's first bite was as luscious as spring's first strawberry and the flavor will linger for days.

The no-hit spectacle of young Bob Feller, the two-hit efforts of old Lefty Grove and the uniformly fine flinging in every one of yesterday's eight games lifted the inaugural to a high place among the sport's opening days.

Just about everything except perfect weather was present to make the season's start a success.

For the first time in four years every one of the programmed games was run off as scheduled and 183,957 fans turned out. This was well below the record 249,010 of 1931 but better than any beginning since 1936.

Typical Day

The world champion New York Yankees were beaten, the National league champion Cincinnati Reds won their first opening game since 1932. There were home runs and arguments with umpires and an extra-inning game and above all some of the best all-around, free-style, no-holds-barred pitching duels the majors ever gathered into a single day.

Feller's marvelous exploit overshadowed all the others, of course. With him in control the Cleveland Indians scalped the Chicago White Sox 1-0.

Fans came so close to getting two no-hitters yesterday that a lot of them probably would still be shaking if they had known what was going on at the time. Lefty Grove tied the Washington Senators into bow-knots and didn't allow them a single until the eighth inning. Finally a teammate's error unsettled the gallant 40-year-old southpaw sufficiently for him to allow two scratch safeties, but he preserved the 1-0 victory for the Boston Red Sox.

President Sees All

The show was absorbing enough to keep President Roosevelt and 31,000 other fans at Washington engrossed from start to finish.

The Athletics' 2-1 ten-inning victory over the Yankees was another pitching thriller with Charley (Red) Ruffing of the four-times world champions and Lovill (Chubby) Dean each giving six hits.

An error by Benny McCoy, Connie Mack's $45,000 prize free agent gave New York a run without a hit in the third, but Bob Johnson hit a homer in the fourth to tie the score. Then in the tenth the A's loaded the bases with one out and Dean brought home the winning run with a long fly.

The outstanding hurling display in the National league came in the Phillies' 3-1 triumph over the New York Giants. Walter Kirby Higbe, suffering from a cold and an irritating eye ailment, held the Giants to three hits.

Brooklyn's Whitlow Wyatt, a great righthander last season until he wrenched his knee and had to quit for the season, shut out the Boston Bees 5-0 on five hits.

The 34,342 fans who jammed Crosley field at Cincinnati to capacity also saw a first-rate pitching scrap between their own Paul Derringer and Big Bill Lee of the Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati winning 2-1.

The day's biggest turnout, 40,417 customers at Detroit, watched their Tigers take a 5-1 lashing by the St. Louis Browns behind the seven-hit hurling of George (Slicker) Coffman, whom Detroit discarded during the winter.

At St. Louis it was the other way round, with the Cardinals getting crushed 6-4 under the 15-hit bombardment of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Three Pittsburgh pitchers gave a total of seven hits.

Harding's Gridders Look Good in Spring Victory at Mansfie

Prexies Win 7-6 in Practice Session; Friday Tilt Set.

Marion Harding's 1941 football team was formally unveiled yesterday afternoon at Mansfield, where the Presidents unofficially defeated the Tygers, 7-6, in a practice session. The squads will meet again on the Harding stadium field Friday at 3:45 p. m.

The preview of Coach Bill Williams' squad of '41 indicated that his crew may be every bit as good, and possibly better than the team which last year produced Harding's first season without a defeat. He used 25 athletes, among them five veterans, against Coach Paul Brown's Tygers.

Runs Overtime

The game was nearly regulation as possible, except that the periods were cut to 12 minutes and both mentors remained on the field to point out errors to their proteges. Actually the contest went four and one-half quarters and it was in the extra stanza that Marion pushed over its touchdown.

Mansfield scored in the second period. Fullback Jim Templeton charged over from the two-yard strip after the Tygers had engineered a 22-yard field march. A try for placement went wide of the posts. During most of the game the teams scrapped on fairly even terms and the battleground was in midfield.

Harding capitalized on an 80-yard drive, Warren Ferguson going the last seven on a reverse. Pete Bascos, veteran tackle and currently being converted into a blocking back, booted the added point from placement. The locals were minus the services of Captain-elect Owen Creasap and Charles Roberts, backfield candidate, who were kept home by illness.

Those who broke into Harding's line-up are Howard Richardson, James Gilmore, Bob Kemmerly, Bill Buetlin, ends; Richard Edwards, Pete Bascos, Ed Messenger, Dick West and Bob Roseberry, tackles; Wayne Short, Martin Lewis and James Turner, guards; King Keller, center; Warren Ferguson, LeRoy Harvey, John Edington, Day Hurst, Leo Belknap, Howard Hodges and Howard Gilbert, backs.

KNOX, MUSTO DRAW

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., April 17—A slow start cost Buddy Knox of Dayton, O., a decision over Tony Musto of Chicago in a 10-round fight here last night. Knox staggered the Chicagoan in the seventh and tenth rounds with a savage two-fisted barrage, but officials ruled the bout a draw because of Musto's advantage in the early rounds.

BIG PAUL LAUNCHES REDS IN FLAG RACE

Derringer in Superb Form, Beats Cubs 2-1.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, April 17—Well, Paul Derringer has 1-25 of his quota of victories for 1940 and today sees Bucky Walters going after 1-27 of the job cut out for him.

You may point to history and say that it takes a man to win 50 games in two years, but on the basis of what happened here yesterday, there are grounds for a healthy suspicion that there is just such a man in town.

Of Bucky's chances for making it 54 in two years, more may be said after his tilt this afternoon with Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs.

All that is known for sure right now is that Big Paul is in August form and that when he is in that form the Cincinnati Reds are hard to beat.

Gabby Hartnell's Cubs found that out under the slate-colored skies of opening day. General Bill Lee, one of Gabby's aces, was no slouch himself. He allowed only two runs, but when Paul Derringer is pitching for the Reds, they don't need many more than that and the score was 2 to 1.

Paul might have had a shutout but for one big fat pitch to Augie Galan in the sixth. The ball came down in the right field bleachers.

Prospect, Pleasant, Harpster Win in Relay and Track Competition

Events Serve as Tune Up for Annual County Classic Scheduled for Saturday.

Cinder path artists of five county schools were active in relay and track competition yesterday. It provided the clubs with a tune up for the annual county relays to be held Saturday at Prospect.

Prospect, long-time king of the county track realm, was victorious in a triangular relay session on its home grounds. The competition was provided by neighboring Waldo and Sycamore of Wyandot county.

Pleasant turned back the visiting Green Camp squad in a joust matching county teams. Morral journeyed to Harpster, losing to the Wyandot county hosts. Both of the latter meets consisted of dual track competition.

Prospect rolled up 53 points to 24 for Waldo and Sycamore's 15 in the triangular relays.

Three Marks Broken

Three existing county marks were shattered during the session. Best performance was Prospect's 47.8-sec. time in the 440-yard relay by Griffith, P. Gast, J. F. Lauer and Almindinger. Their time was full second better than the record posted last year by Pleasant's relay team.

Another mark broken by Prospect was the broad jump in which Griffith, Evans and Dodrill compiled a total of 57ft. 11in. This was two feet better than the current mark held by Morral's team. Waldo also broke the existing Morral record by placing second with 56ft 2½in.

Waldo blasted the high jump mark by two and one-half inches. The squad, Smith, Trefz and J. Trefz, totaled 15 ft. 4in. Tightest race of the afternoon was in the medley relay, which Prospect won when Samuel Lauer overhauled Everhart, Sycamore miler, in the last five yards.

Pleasant rolled up 63.1 points against Green Camp's 43.0 in their dual track session. Ferriman paced the winning club with 23 points and Beaver was Green Camp's top scorer with 15¾. Ferriman copped firsts in the broad jump, 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes and finished second in the shot put.

Morral Edged

Harpster just barely edged Coach Frank Furniss' visiting Morral squad. The home club collected 56 points to 54 garnered by Morral. Harold Dillion, ace of Coach Kenny Somerlot's winning club, rolled up 22 points and Robert Messenger garnered 15 to pace the Morral athletes.

Results follow:

(In the relays, contesting schools compete with entries composed of three athletes for each event, their collective total being the basis of scoring. In the track meets, however, competition matches individual athletes against each other.)

Feller Says Curve Ball Not Working Despite No Hitter in Opening Game

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 17—Robert William Andrew Feller stood there in the dressing room, strangely composed but happy, and said "my curve wasn't breaking the way I wanted it to."

He wasn't popping off and he wasn't being facetious. There is no false modesty in the makeup of this 21-year-old Iowa farm boy who yesterday entered baseball's hall of fame with a no-hit, no-run game, first ever recorded in the season's opener in modern major league history. He struck out eight batters and walked five. Another reached base on an error.

"I think I've been faster several times," he explained. "Of course that strong wind behind me helped make me faster. But I couldn't seem to throw a curve very well."

A matter of fact, hard working country boy, that's Feller. He congratulated his Cleveland mates just as warmly as they praised him for the 1-0 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

Rollie Hemsley, Feller's catcher and closest friend on the squad whose triple sent Jeff Heath home with the winning run, said he had seen the young righthander a lot faster but "he was never a better pitcher—he's got everything."

Mother On Hand

Standing outside the dressing room in the chilly air was Mrs. William Feller of Van Meter, Iowa, waiting to reclaim her famous son from the uproar inside.

Last June on Mother's day she was one of 25,000 spectators in Comiskey park when Bob was pitching. A foul tip from the bat of a White Sox player struck her in the head and she was rushed to a hospital for emergency treatment. As soon as Feller was assured his mother was not seriously injured he returned to the mound and continued his pitching job.

He joined the Indians in 1936, a lad of 16 without ever having pitched in a minor league game. Since then he has won 55 games while losing 30. He led the American league in victories last year with 24 and has led in strikeouts the past two seasons.

No other pitcher in modern times ever tossed a no-hitter to open the diamond season. But on April 19, 1900, Morris I. Amole pitched a no-hit 8-0 victory for Buffalo over Detroit in the first game when the American was still a minor circuit.

And on April 15, 1909 Leon K. Ames pitched nine hitless, runless innings for New York against Brooklyn in the season's inaugural but lost the game in extra innings, 3-0, giving up seven hits in the last four frames of a 13-inning game.

First Since 1938

Feller's no-hitter was the first in the big leagues since Monte Pearson of New York turned the trick against Cleveland on Aug. 27, 1938.

After the game Feller praised his teammates for their part in the victory, especially singling out Fay Mack, rookie second baseman. Mack knocked down Taft Wright's hard smash and nailed him at first for the final out of the game.

"I wasn't sure I had it until Mack threw out that last man," Bob said. "That was the hardest ball hit off me all day. It really was hit."

Feller also praised the defensive play of Ben Chapman and Ken Keltner.

He said he was unworried about the "no-hit jinx," a superstition that pitchers often slump after hurling a perfect game.

"Tomorrow's another day and I'll be out there every time I pitch just trying to win for the Indians," the youthful ace said.

Heath got on base with the winning run by driving out a single in the fourth. Hemsley's triple was a hefty smash to the right-field corner.

Mack doubled to start the seventh, but was nipped at third on Feller's bunt. Hemsley also got a single, with Keltner and Roy Weatherly collecting the other Cleveland hits.

Hudlin Due Today

Willis Hudlin, dean of the mound staff, was scheduled to pitch today, with Johnny Ridney on the hill for the Chisox.

Feller is due to make his nex appearance at Cleveland stadium next Sunday against the Detroit Tigers. Indian officials are predicting a crowd of 30,000.

By The Associated Press

GALION, April 17—Two boys of the school safety patrol of Galion will be sent to the ninth annual national school patrol celebration to be held in Washington, D. C., on May 10 and 11.

While the Galion Automobile club each year rewards all members of the school safety patrol this is the first year the local club has sponsored a boy on a trip to Washington, it was announced today by the club secretary, Mrs. Grace Thomas.

Selection of the two boys to make the trip will be made by a civic committee appointed by Mrs. Thomas and composed of Mayor W. M. King; O. E. Hill, superintendent of the Galion public schools; Rev. PROFIT TAKING CHECKS STOCKS

Market Nervous, but Some Paper Shares Reach New 1940 Highs.

By The Associated Press

New York, April 17—General price advances met with profit-taking resistance in a nervous stock market today. Some paper company shares reached new 1940 highs.

Advancing at various times were Bethlehem, Yellow Truck, Boeing, Martin, Lockheed, Union Carbide, Phelps Dodge, American Telephone, New York shipbuilding and International Paper common and preferred.

Bonds were uneven. Commodities lifted a bit. London and Amsterdam markets were firm but Paris prices slipped.

A prediction by Walter S. Gifford, president of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., that the year would see another large gain in telephone use was well received by traders.

WHEAT BACKS DOWN FROM HIGH LEVELS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 17 — Wheat prices backed down fractionally today from the highest levels at which futures contracts now listed on the board have been quoted in more than two years.

Rains that amounted to downpours in some localities and were spread throughout most of the grain belt represented the principal selling factor. The market also had to absorb above normal receipts because of liquidation of 1939 grain that has been held under government loans since harvest.

Traders who accepted profits did so with caution, however, due to European developments, and prices rallied frequently after an early slump of almost a cent.

Wheat closed unchanged to ½ cent lower compared with yesterday's finish, May $1.08⅞-¾, July $1.08¾-⅝; corn ⅛-½ higher, May 62½-⅝; July 63⅝-¾; oats unchanged to ⅛ lower.
